

Investment objective

To seek a combination of income and long-term capital appreciation, but with a focus on income, with a medium risk investment profile.

Benchmark

The Fund is benchmarked against the MSCI PIMFA Income Index (Total Return) and will take active positions relative to this index on both asset allocation and stock selection. The Fund's broad asset allocation (split by equities, fixed income and alternatives) will typically be restricted to a range, relative to the benchmark, set by the CSI Investment Committee.

Investment policy

In order to achieve its objective, the Fund will invest principally in a diversified portfolio of different asset classes such as equities, equity linked securities (including warrants and convertible securities), fixed and floating rate debt securities, index linked bonds, cash and cash equivalents. Debt securities (including sovereign and corporate) as well as higher yielding equities will be the dominant asset classes.

The equity part of the Fund's portfolio will contain primarily securities from the leading UK companies (FTSE 350) or their equivalents from overseas markets. The equity part of the portfolio may also consist of, but to a proportionately lesser extent, the securities of smaller companies. The bond part of the Fund's portfolio will contain mainly bonds such as sovereign debt or securities guaranteed by governments and corporate debt with the focus being on medium to high credit quality. The bond part of the portfolio may also consist of, but to a proportionately lesser extent, lower quality bonds.

Fund manager commentary

During the first quarter, the Fund returned 1.6% against the PIMFA Income Index that returned 4.3%. Relative underperformance was driven by stock selection in UK equities.

In 1605, Spanish author Miguel de Cervantes wrote his best known, and supposedly the first modern, novel 'Don Quixote'. In it he wrote that, "it is the part of a wise man to keep himself today for tomorrow, and not venture all his eggs in one basket". More than 400 years later and that is exactly what passive funds and many oft-quoted benchmarks risk doing.

In the first quarter of 2024 international equity markets (excluding the UK) increased in value by 8.0% - that was primarily driven by the US market which increased again by 10.2%. By contrast the UK equity market increased by just 2.5%.

Such has been the persistence of the US equity market outperformance, and the persistence of the relatively small number of businesses driving that, that we are now in the narrowest market on record with market concentration well above long term averages. By some measures the weighting of the 10 largest companies in the global index is more than double the long-term average.

Fortunately for wholly passive investors, and unfortunately for the Coleman Street Funds, the all-your-eggs-in-one-basket approach of concentrating exposure in a handful of winners continues to pay metaphorical dividends for now (it doesn't pay literal dividends but that's a discussion for another day).

Our approach is to seek greater diversification in risk by asset class, by geography, by sector and by style – we see value in blending passive funds, active funds and owning assets directly. We believe that this resilience will benefit performance as returns broaden and we believe that this is beginning to show in specific assets and geographies already. We are pleased to be able to report strong returns from Barclays and Lloyds up 19.1% and 8.5% over the quarter, our recently purchased gold position which has increased 8.2% and an overweight position to Japanese equities which saw its index increase by 20.6%.

We will continue to take opportunities to make attractive investments across a diversified portfolio and a number of baskets – we believe that the current market offers great opportunity for both attractive and resilient returns.
